Army Push Is Started By Saigon Big Force Moves Near Cambodia

SAIGON, Sept. 29 (UPI).—Frity thousand South Victnamese, tacked by U.S. combat troops and heavy U.S. air support, drove northward from Tay Ninh today in a major counteroffensive against three North Vietnamese divisions attacking on the Cambodian-Vietnam border.

The South Vietnamese units were believed to include both infantry and armor. They swept out of Tay Ninh, 50 miles northwest of Saigon, toward the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Krek, 35 miles away along Highway 22.

The North Vietnamese blocked the highway on Sunday when they opened a border offensive lbat South Vietnamese military leaders said was an attempt to inflict a defeat that would embarrass President Nguyen Van Thieu before his one-man presidential election.

The drive today began after a daylong B-52 pounding of North Vietnamese positions along the highway and elsewhere in northern Tay Ninh Province. Fighter-bombers were also in action but most belicopter gunships were grounded by bad weather. First reports said the South Vietnamese were meeting only light resistance.

Copters, Planes and Trucks South Vietnamese and US. troops were reported to be pouring into Tay Ninh aboard helicopters, planes and trucks throughout the day.

Gen. Nguyen Xuan Tinh, com-mander of the South Victnamese 25th Division, said that the 50,000 soldiers included the 18th and 25th Divisions, two brigades of the airborne division, the 3d Armored Task Force, other armored units and "several" ranger groups. He added that the three divisions of North Victosmese numbered possibly 36,000 men. The U.S. command shifted a 1,000-man squadron of the 11th

German at IMF Feels U.S. May Yield on Dollar

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (Reuters).—The president of the West German Central Bank. Karl Klasen, said today that it was his impression that the United States would be prepared to devalue the dollar against gold if this were necessary for a multilateral agreement on currency realignment

Mr. Klasen, chairman of the International Monetary Fund meeting here, made his comments at a news conference soon after President Nixon and IMF managing director Pierre-Paul Schweitzer met at tha White House to discuss the monetary crisis. Mr. Klasen said that the United States had not specifically said that it would devalue—indeed, the White House said its position against devaluation was unchanged. But, referring to the U.S. stand, Mr. Klasen said: "They will not

Discussing the IMF talks so far, he said: "My impression is that some steps have been made towards the willingness of the United States in case of need to devalue the dollar against gold."

Informed sources said earlier today that the United States was preparing a three-point package deal to try to settle the financial crisis, with a realignment of major world currencies as the first point of negotiation, The United States, which imposed an import surcharge and cut the dollar's ties to last month to try to solve its big balance-of-payments deficit, has resisted all demands by other major currency powers that it devalue the dollar against gold.

The sources said the three phases of the package being prepared by the United States are: a realignment of major world currencies; an understanding that major powers should negotiate a wider sharing of in-ternational defense costs; negotiations to reduce trade bar-

Mr. Klasen said there was an urgent need to talk about effective means of realigning currencles, but he did not believe the situation would be fully resolved mid-November, when the Group of Ten finance ministers were likely to meet for parity negotiation.

Welcomes Seating of Peking Britain Warns UN on Mideast War

29 (URI),-Britain warned today that fighting may crupt soon in the Middle East unless Israel and the Arabs agree to negotiate.

The warning, delivered to the General Assembly by the British Foreign Secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Rome, was followed by a Lebanese demand for sauctions against Israel as the only means of restoring Middle East peace and of regaining UN prestige in the area.

Both Sir Alec and Canadian External Affairs Secretary Mitchell Sharp, speaking in the assembly's policy debate, hailed the expected seating of Communist China in the United Nations. Neither mentioned the U.S. effort to save a seat for Nationalist China while scating the Peking regime.

"It may mark a turning point in our history and the portunity for a new beginning, if this assembly moved promptly

Chances of Mideast Accord Are Dim, Big-4 Talks Indicate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. national community's hopes for 29 (NYT).—Prospects for a par-tial settlement between Egypt and Israel were described as extremely dim here last night after recent consultations among the foreign ministers of the Big Four and other diplomatic exchanges. In private talks since the opening General Assembly session last week, Eritain, France and the Soviet Union have conveyed to the United States their impression that an interim settlement, including the reopening of the Suez Canal, appears to be unattainable in the foreseeable future.

Egyptian and Israeli diplomats have made it equally clear that the proposals formulated by Secretary of State William P. Rogers since his Middle East visit last May remain unacceptable.

The continuing problem of the Middle East stalemate was further emphasized in policy speeches before the General Assembly yesterday morning by French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A.

According to other reports here, the agreement between the Vatican and the Communist regime in Budapest included a pledge that the cardinal-primate would refrain from speaking in public about his own case and Hungarian political affairs in general. Played Key Role Mr. Goldstein, who used to con-

Poll Finds 77% Of '68 Delegates Support Agnew

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (WP). —A conservative newspaper's poll of 1968 Republican convention delegates has found that 77 percent favor the renomination of Vice-President Agnew

The survey, reported Monday by Human Events, a conservative weekly, said three times as many delegates thought Mr. Agnew would strengthen the ticket as weaken it. It said 71 percent said a "dump-Agnew" move-ment would damage the Re-publicans' chances of winning next year.

The results were based on replies from 861 delegates and alternates to the 1968 convention, slightly more than one-third of those to whom the questionnaire was sent.

A poll of 407 persons who contributed $500 or more to the last Republican campaign found that 20 percent of them said they would not financially support a 1972 Nixon race if Mr. Agnew were dumped. Only 7 percent of the contributors said they would balk at giving if Mr. Agnew were renominated. About 80 percent said they planned to contribute to the 1972 campaign, and 55 percent said it would make no difference to them who is picked for Vice-President.

> > Nov. 1 Shakeup

Administration sources explain that the shakeup in the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which is slated to take place Nov. 1, is only the result of a long-planned reorganization of government statistical services set forth in a federal publication last July. Under this, a new office of data analysis will be established in the bureau. It will have the responsibility, formerly borne by Mr. Goldstein and other top career technicians, for the analysis and interpretation of the consumer price index, employment and jobless figures, productivity statistics and the like.

There have been persistent reports that this job will be filled by an unnamed University of Texas economist recommended for the job by Sen. John G. Tower,

R., Texas.
Also, there were similar reports that Mr. Henle's job will be taken over by John Myers, an economist for the Conference Board, a research organization supported mainly by business.

Retirement Encouraged Congressional sources said they had been told a number of bu reau professionals will receive reductions in grade as a result of the reorganisation and some employees are being encouraged to retire. interests of the administration." Sen. Proxmire, who strongly protested abandonment of the briefings and has summoned bureau officials to explain price and unemnloyment figures before his committee, said:

Step to Hidden Universe?

Advance Reported by Russia In Production of Anti-Matter

PARIS, Sept. 29 (THT).—Soviet of 50,000 anti-deuterons was also physicists have produced anti-reported by the Russians. helium-3, the news agency Tass reported today.

The official announcement follows the recent registration by the scientists of the feat with the Government Committee for Discoveries and Inventions. It represents a step forward in the continuing research, in both the United States and the Soviet Union, on anti-matter.

The Soviet accomplishment may contribute to evidence of the long-discussed theory that there may be a universe of antimatter, in which seas and mountains, animals and even humans would be composed of atoms exactly the opposite of those making up familiar earthly ele-

Violent Explosion

If there exists such an antiuniverse, near our own, or if there are even isolated deposits of anti-matter in our own universe, any collision of the two would produce a violent explosion after which nothing would remain, U.S. researchers have theo-

French experts today estimated that the fusion of two grams of matter with two grams of antimatter would produce enough energy to alter the orbit of the earth around the sun. They suggested that eventually such energy could have applications in interplanetary travel. They ruled out military applications of such a process as unnecessary in view of present nuclear capability.

The theory that atomic particles have mirror images opposite them in electric charge and magnetic field was first proposed by Paul A. M. Dirac, the English physicist and Nobel Prize winner, in 1927.

His analysis of how atoms are made suggested to him that there should be positrons, the opposites of the outer electrons that whiz around the nuclei of atoms in concentric shells. A particle identical to the electron, except that it had a positive charge, was found in 1932. And when an electron and a positron were placed close together, they promptly eliminated each other.

Whirling Around

Then in 1955, Owen Chamberlain and Emilio Segre used the giant atom accelerator at the University of California in Berkeley to make and detect an antiproton, the opposite of the heavy, positively charged particle in the atomic nucleus. Each proton tethers an electron whirling around that nucleus. The ant:neutron, the third and member of the basic atomic trio, was found the same year,.

In 1966, Dr. Leon Max Leder man and his colleagues at Columbia University found the first, tightly clutched atomic core composed of a single anti-proton ery, like the Soviet one, was not unexpected, but was considered difficult and time-consuming.

Dr. Lederman bombarded the element beryllium with protons in the cyclotron at the Brookhaven laboratory, on Long Island, and produced the anti-core, or nucleus, of the form of heavy hydrogen known as deuterium.

Artificial Creation

The Soviet project, carried out by Prof. Yuri Prokoshkin on the 70-billion-electronvolt proton synchrotron at Serpukhov, near Moscow, goes further than the Americans' in that it artifically creates anti-helium-8 with nuclei consisting of two anti-protons and one anti-neutron. The production

Tass commented: "The existence of anti-matter in nature was theoretically predicted long ago. With the development of powerful accelerators the study of anti-particles has been advanced considerably."

Tass also reported, without details, discoveries in the field of "exitonics." Tass said this was a system consisting of an electron and a positive charge that "can move about a crystal lattice and carry considerable amounts of energy." Prof. Yev-geny Gross, one of the exiton discoverers, said this branch of physics will find "many uses in the study of photosynthesis as well as many phenomena in optics, biological chemistry and oncology (the study of tumors)."

-U.S. servicemen stationed overseas will receive increases in living allowances to make up for the devaluation of the dollar, the Defense Department announced yesterday.

Defense officials said new rates affecting housing and cost-ofliving allowances, travel per diem allowances and temporary lodging allowances for military personnel in Europe and the Far East would be issued within a few days. The new rates will be retroactive to Aug. 15, the day Mr. Nixon's new economic policy went into effect. The increases will differ from country to country, depending on the changes in the dollar's value.

Supports Creation Of Separate Agency

By John D. Morns WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (NYT).-The White House, in a shift of policy, announced its support yesterday of legislation to create an independent federal agency with authority to advocate and defend consumer interests.

Virginia H. Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs, issued a statement endorsing an independent-agency bill approved yesterday by the House Government Operations Committee.

Mrs. Knauer cailed it "a balanced and responsible proposal which will go far toward guaranteeing the consumer a strong voice in government activities affecting consumer interests."

Raiph Nader, the consumer advocate who helped draft an earlier and stronger version of the measure, said Mrs. Knauer's statement was "a reflection on how weak the bill is." White House opposition to the concept of an independent agency, he contended, otherwise would not have been overcome.

Shares Business Fears Until yesterday, the administration had opposed the concept on the ground that it would un-necessarily add new machinery the federal bureaucracy. It had also shared the fears of business that an independent agency might encourage the harassment and over-regulation of business.

Last year Mr. Nixon proposed a new division in the Justice Department instead of an independent agency. He withdrew that recommendation in a special message last February and promised to offer an alternative plan in April but failed to do so. In the February message, the President suggested that the Federal Trade Commission be assigned consumer-advocacy functions if Congress decided to act before his final recommendations were ready. Administration officials declined to go beyond Mrs. Knauer's statement in explanation of the policy shift.

Laird Replies to Critics

Nixon Tells POWs' Relatives Of Efforts to Obtain Release

By Michael Getler

-Answering Democratic critics. President Nixon told the relatives of American prisoners of war in Indochina last night thet "every negotiating channel... including many that have not been disclosed" is being pursued to obtain their release

With Defense Secretary Melvin R, Laird and Gen, William C. Westmoreland looking on, Mr. Nixon gave the assurances during a surprise appearance before about 500 POW relatives and friends.

"We are checking every possible lead" and "run out" every in-dication that POWs might be released, Mr. Nixon said. But he cautioned against soaring hopes, charging that "we are dealing with a savage enemy, one with no concern for humanitarian

The President's brief but sometimes emotional address drew fervent applause from the dinner meeting of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in South-eest Asia. After assuring the group that the prisoner issue has a special "presidential priority" in his mind, Mr. Nixon left the meeting to a rousing and evidently heartfelt ovation.

Kennedy Appearance Earlier in the day, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D., Mass., said at a meeting of the same group that U.S. prisoners of war are "rotting" in Communist prisons because the Nixon administration has not responded to the July 1 proposals of the Viet Cong nego-

In an emotional exchange with some of the wives and mothers, Sen, Kennedy dismissed Mr. Nixon's forthcoming trip to Peking as a "smoke screen" and charged that the administration is suffering from excessive pride in its approach to the talks.

Sen, Kennedy declared that if he were running the talks, he would have "crawled into the room" if it meant winning freedom for the POWs. In a prepared address to the dinner last night, Defense Secretary Laird hit back directly at Democratic critics who "have claimed on the basis of some direct or indirect contacts with the North Vietnamese that Hanoi is prepared to be flexible on the issue of separating the release of American prisoners from other issues" at the stalled Paris talks. Mr. Laird declared that whenever the official U.S. delegetion in Faris has pressed Eanoi's representatives for a clear-cut explanation of North Vietnam's stand, "they have received no response or a response veiled in ambiguity." Aimed at McGovern

Mr. Laird's remarks appeared to be aimed primarily at refuting claims by Sen. George Mc-Govern, D., S.D., that the North Vietnamese are prepared to release all prisoners in return only for a U.S. withdrawal by a the senator has said, would come without a final settlement at the same time of the other points in the Communist peace plan of July 1 and without the precondition that the United States withdraw its support for the regime of President Nguyen Van

Sen, McGovern made such claims earlier this month after conversations with Xuan Thuy, the chief of the North Victnamese delegation in Paris.

Hours before Mr. Laird spoke last night, Sen. McGovern issued a statement claiming that he had just received another message from Mr. Thuy reaffirming the senator's earlier claims. Sen, McGovern's statement said the message was "transmitted verbally." When questioned about the details of this, the senator's office said that it could provide no further details other than that the message was transmitted through a "third party."

Mr. Laird said that the North Vietnamese, throughout the Paris talks, had met about 130 times with various unofficial U.S. delegations and that these meetings "have produced in our own soclety much misleading speculation about the war, the talks and the POW issue."

Referring to what the administration views as ambiguous language in the first point of the Communist peace plan Mr. Laird said that "in fact, Hanoi has never said to anyone authorized to negotiate for the U.S. that the prisoners will be released if American troops withdraw, and, of course, there are other conditions they want fulfilled." Terms Restated

"On Sept. 16," Mr. Laird said. "the North Vietnamese restated their seven-point peace plan in the hardest terms, apparently repudiating the reports made by some Americans, who see flexi-bility in Hanol's propaganda." Mr. Laird was referring to remarks at that time by Mr. Thuy that the United States must "simultaneously" announce -a troop withdrawal and the end of support for the Thieu government to get its prisoners back. Communist press spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le said the same day that the Viet Cong's sevenpoint proposal "forms a whole" and that it was "indispensable to reach agreement on the whole' package. Sen. McGovern insisted last night that his latest message from Mr. Thuy "affirmed that my statement in Paris reflected exact understanding of their

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (WP). [Communist] position. A spokesman for the senator claimed that news accounts which interpreted! Mr. Thuy's Sept. 16 remarks as a repudiation of his earlier remarks to Sen McGovern were incorrect. State Department officiais, however, also disputed Sen. Mc-Govern's latest claim, maintaining that the issues of withdrawal and support of President Thieu remain linked, as far as they could determine. The senator also charged that the administration has a political interest in raising doubts about the willingness of other parties to release all prisoners... because the President's policy places perpetuation of the Thieu government ahead of prisoner release on the priority scale."

Pope Attacks Church Critics as 'Decadent'

(UPI).—Pope Paul VI, on the eve of the third Synod of Bishops, said today that the Roman Catholic Church is under attack by critics whom he called 'decadent.'

A round of applause from the thousands of persons in St. Peter's Basilica for his weekly general audience greeted the Pontiff's words.

A few dozen yards away, workmen rushed to finish a new hall in time for the first plenary session of the synod, which will discuss the priesthood and world

The synod officially will open with a mass in the Sistine Chapel tomorrow morning and it is expected to continue for at least a month.

The Pope said that there is a widespread "critical, protesting and impatient frame of mind which is basically decadent and which is harren of admiratioo, enthusiasm and love for the church, and, thus, also of the sense of joy and sacrifice."

The 75-year-old Pontiff direct-ly attacked an Italian television program about the synod, which, he said, criticized "all the bene-fits of the institutional church." The 210 synod fathers, most of whom already are in Rome, will use a 350-seat hall that is part of a new, $10-million complex for papal andiences and important church meetings.

There was no break-up, no walkeut and, so far, no recrimination or public posturing for narrow political purposes. The three prime ministers joined in condemning violence and in promising to try to end both vicience and interpment "without delay." They agreed that their discussions had served a useful purpose and that additional meetings might be helpful.

This is no mean achievement when one recalls that it would have been politically impossible to bring Prime Minister Lynch of the Irish Republic and Prime Minister Faulkner or Northern Ireland around the same table a few weeks ago. The fact that Prime Minister Heath could bring this off and get agreement even on broad, general objectives indicates that all three involved governments are aware at last of the awful dimensions of the Ulster crisis.

Now the test will be whether those governments have the will and strength to move without undue delay toward the minimum conditions required to start rebuilding "cooperation between the two communities in Northern Ireland."

If Ulster's responsible Catholic political leaders are to be persuaded to cooperate in ending the violence, they must receive two things: assurances of constitutional change that will give Ulster's 500,000 Catholics a proportional share in public administration, and a conditional timetable for ending internment. Only then will they be able to command enough support in the Catholic areas to Isolate the Irish Republican Army terrorists.

In a substantial shift, Britain's Home Secretary. Reginald Maudling, has agreed to consider constitutional changes aimed et giving the Cetholic minority "an active." permanent and guaranteed place in the public affairs of Northern Ireland. Mr. Faulkner has agreed at least te study such ideas, though he still is far from accepting a coalition government at Stormont.

If these reforms could be coupled with a conditional promise to end internment, Mr. Heath and Mr. Faulkner would have every right to expect vigorous action from Mr. Lynch in halting IRA operations from the south end in persuading Ulster's Catholic leaders to end their campaign of withdrawal and civil disobedience. Without ehandoning his aspiration for eventual reunification of Ireland, Mr. Lynch also will have to sey more forcefully than he has to date that this is not in the cards for the near future.

This is asking for large doses of political courage from everyone involved: but it is only along these lines that the three governments can hope to restore cooperation in Ulster or even to check the slide toward civil war. Even to list these conditions is to Indicate what a modest step-though an essential and en the whole hopeful one-has been taken in the talks just concluded.

Cardinal Mindszenty Departs

Josef Cardinal Mindszenty has bowed to the pleas of Pope Paul and ended his long self-imposed confinement in the American Embassy in Budapest. Almost 15 years ago, when he fled to the safety of the embassy as Soviet tanks and troops bloodily suppressed the 1956 Hungarian revolution, he was acalaimed as a hero in much of the world. During the few brief days of his freedom from a Communist jail at the height of the revolution, he had become the symbol of outraged Hungarian nationalism lashing out at Moscow's imposition of satellite status upon Hungary.

Undoubtedly the cardinal assumed when he entered the embassy that he would die martyr there, a figure representing Hungary's unquenchable thirst for freedom. That desire for martyrdom presumably prompted the cardinal's recurrent refusal of namerous suggestions from the Vetican and the Hungarlan government that he go into voluntary exile. By going to Rome new, he has finally accepted the new reality of a period in which many on both sides of the Iron Curtain want detente and an end to yesterday's religious and political quarrels. His singular ordeal will be remembered as the stuff of which legends are made.

Nixon's Obstinacy -

The IMF meeting will not be decisive. Bot a tendency will emerge from the meeting that will govern the subsequent course of events. The monetary question is nothing compared to its economic and political implications. Even if too-easy comparisons should be avoided, the fact remains that, in the past it was the themes of economic expansion and vital space that started the World Wars. This is why it is high time for the U.S. to get hold of itself and stop reasoning in terms of balance of accounts. Since Aug. 15, people here and there have been stubbornly analyzing the monetary crisis as a showdown among rivals, But Europe and Japan are not the adversaries of America. Until further notice, they are not only its trading partners but also its political allies. Mr. Nixon's obstinacy thus appears to us particularly out of place. The diplomatic errers committed, notably teward Japan. appear serious for anyone who knows how important it is for Asians to save face. As for nationalist tendencies in Europe, they are still strong enough to challenge all the steps which have been painfully taken on the road to unity.

Soviet Spies in Britain

Russie's espionege activities in Britain have been a growing scandal, and the Foreign Office is entirely justified in slapping on the brakes. It has been proven useless just to limit the number of accredited diplomats; the Russians simply answer by swelling the numbers of their other governmental missions. So the only thing to do is to limit the number of officials overall. No doubt the Russians will be furious. They will claim that Anglo-Russian relations, already cool, are bound now to become frozen or worse. But they will be wrong if they assume that the hopes for better reletions expressed by the foreign secretary, coinciding with the expulsions, are insincere.

Thoughts on Mao

The popular and uncharitable explanation of the recent non-eppearances of Chairman Mao is that he is dead, mad, or in a coma. The popular explanation of the non-appearance of Colonel Qadhafi of Libya (who also seems to be missing) is that be hed a motor accident which was either serious or shameful. One drawback to being a dictator is that people jump to ghoulish conclusions every time you take the day off. In fect Chairman Mao and the colonel have as much right to solitude as anyone else, and rather more need for it. The most reasonable explanation of the chairman's withdrawal is that he has gone away to have more thoughts. He is going to need some soon. Mao has spent the best part of his working life denouncing successive Presidents of the United States as fascist hyenas and now he is going to meet one. What do you say, over the teacups, to a fascist hyena? The Little Red Book is

Japan's Trade Problems

.If Japan finally agrees to establish a government-operated control system for its textile exports (in place of the present industry-controlled system which is unacceptable in Washington) there will be a chance of American agreement to one of Japan's demands. This is that President Nixon's 10 percent import surcharge should be waived on products which are already subject to voluntary controls.

The leng-term answer to Japan's trading problems with the U.S. is for Japanese exporters to avoid the techniques of cencentration which have been used in the past in the marketing of their products and to diversify both the products themselves and the areas in which they are sold.

This could mean that other parts of the world have to take some of the brunt of Japan's export drive, and one of those areas could well be Western Europe.

Spies in Britain

London is trying to drag its Atlantic Pact allies into its anti-Soviet campaign. With the British proposal to convene a summit meeting of secret services of Atlantic Pact countries, the expulsion of 105 Soviet citizens from Britain increasingly appears in its true light—that is, as a measure signaling a vast political campaign aimed at scuttling détente. The pitiful manenvers of British diplomacy should not only be firmly rejected by the French side but also give it useful food for thought on the risks involved in a close associetion with the London government, whose request for admission to the Common Market it would undoubtedly be most advisable to reconsider.

The Road to Miami Beach

By William V. Shannon

WASHINGTON Without any. one noticing, this country has moved remarkably close to choosing one of its presidential candidates by a national primary. When the Democrats meet in Miami Beach next July, two-thirds of the delegates will have heen chosen in primaries. Since roters in 22 states including York, Pennsylvania and California are to choose their delegates, the primaries here be-come the crucial battlegrounds. Up to now, the primaries have chiefly been held in small and medium-sized states—New Hamp-shire, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Oregon. The results were important for their psychological, propagends, and money-raising effects but most of th delegations were not directly affeeted, Political managers used the primary votes as talking points in their bargaining with uncommitted kingmakers. While candidates were pumping hands and trudging through smell towns in Nebraska and Oregon. the really important delegations were being out together behind the scenes and by the deals made by a relatively few leaders in the hig states like Pennsylvania, Iliinois and Texas. As Hubert Humphrey proved in 1968, if a candidete had the support of key people, he could avoid the primaries and still win the nomina-

That can no lenger happen in the Democratic party. Only :f the successive state primarie produce e bewildering variety of winners will the kingmakers have an opportunity to determine the

This considerable shift in the focus of power has taken place as a result of the upheavals that occurred within the Democratic party in 1968. When President Johnson unexpectedly withdrew as a candidate in late March, the delegate selection process was already far advanced in 38 states. These pro-Johnson delegations became free egents, which is another way of saying the voters could not control where they went. Most of them began driving to Humphrey, but the issue wes still in doubt until early June when Robert Kennedy was ssinated. Kennedy's death made Humphrey's nomination certain because the power-brokers would not eccept Eugene McCarthy. Some Kennedy supporters could not accept him either and switched their energies to structural reform. They whipped togeiller a package of reforms which Sen Harold Hughes of Iowa presented to the convention as a minority report of the Rules Committee.

Movement for reform was already under way in the party. The Credentials Committee recommended and the convention approved the setting up of a perty commission to improve delegate selection. When the convention went on to adopt Hughes's minority report, the effect was to give this commission specific instructions. McGovern and Fraser

The commission, first headed hy Sen. George McGovern and more recently by Rep. Donald Fraser of Minnesota, has adopted stringent guide lines for the state parties based on those proposed by Hughes in 1968. The unit rule is abolished so minority roices will be represented in the delegations chosen to go te the national convention. The dele-gates have to be selected in the calendar yeer of the presidential election to make certain that they reflect the current thinking of the party. Previously, many delegates were chosen by state emanities, which in turn had been elected two or four years earlier. In an effort to conform with these new rules, several states have either introduced prithe ideal answer.

maries, or made their primaries more meaningful By any reasonable standard. the Demosratic party has made long strides toward self-reform. The danger now is that the best will become the enemy of the good. There are elements in the party who are prepared to challenge every delegation that is not in full compliance with every last requirement in the new guidelines. These credential contests would lay the moral basis for the cry. "We were robbed!" The dissidents could then go out into the night to assert their he begins to glimpse that farther

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (NYT).-The Food and Drug Administration has announced that it has found high levels of the chemical contaminant PCB in shredded wheat packed in recycled cardboard.

An agency spokesman said Monday that since the finding last June, the manufacturers of the cardboard and the food companies had stopped using the type of cardboard that caused the contamination:

The cardboard had apparently been made of different kinds of waste paper, including carbonless copying paper, which is made with PCB. PCB is chemically akin to the insecticide DDT and PCB contamination has recently been found in eggs, chickens, tur-keys, salmon and fish meal.

Rontine Analysis A spokesman for the FDA said the PCB had been detected during a routine analysis of food products based on the foods that a 19-year-old youth might routinely eat.

A composite sample of cereal products showed that 0.4 parts per million of PCB was present. When the components of the sample were individually examined, the cause was traced to the shredded wheat. The spokesman said, the PCB contamination, of various brands of shredded wheat ranged from one part per million

The spokesman said that the FDA was now testing 15 other food products packed in recycled paper to determine if they too were contaminated. The products range from frozen fruit juices to potato chips.

The agency's technicians found that levels of PCB in the cardboard packing ranged from one part per million to 433 parts per

Perhaps the most popular name to emerge from the campaign was that of an imaginery figure named "Don Gundisalvo." Por the past few weeks Spain's bestbeen drawing him for ABC. A number of Madrileños insisted today that they had written him

Candidates this year were allowed to publish campaign statements limited to 500 words and subject to censorship. Public fund-raising events were prohibited, as were associations to raise funds or support candidates. One candidate, whose electoral slogan was, "The voice of those without voice," had a criminal suit lodged against him for disrespect to the regime.

The Spanish Cortes has severly limited powers, and its elected fifth—the other four-fifths is designated, directly or indirectly. by the authorities-has no real weight. It is significant, nevertheless, in being the only democratically chosen portion of a regime whose power emanctes from the top and trickles down.

In the declining years of the Frenco regime, with the regime's uncertain about the future and their own strength, the voices of men who can claim to have been elected have influence, if not real

In the last Cortes, a small group of democratically-minded deputies-Eduardo Tarragona from Barcelona, Auxilio Goni and Jose Zubiaur from Navarre, Manuel Escudero from Guipuzcca, and others—managed to make themselves heard, if not heeded, in arguing for greater freedoms.

Monteverdi's Landmark 'Pop

By David Stevene

MSTERDAM (IHT).-It is not news that Monteverdl'e "L'Incoronaziona di Poppea" is one of the great landmarks in opera nor that, almos 330 years after its Venetian première, it still holds the stage. Yet, the production that has just opened the Netherlands Opera's season may itself turn out to be an event to remember in operatio

This is not just because it was almost certainly tha most complete and most faithful—to both Monteverdi and his librettist, Gian Francesco Busa nello-production of modern times. It is also that the company's cautiously scheduled six performances (10 or 12 is usual here) sold out and turned people away in droves, and that the packed house Monday night, after the final three-and-three-quarter-hour performance, applauded and cheered as if it had just heard a rousing "Il Trovatora."

It was proof, then, that Monteverdi can hold his own in today's operatic repertory—at least with "Poppea"—with a minimum of concessions to modern musical taste and practice. Monteverdi speaks to us as directly today, and in his own voice, as Verdi does, and the total humanity of his characters comes over with undiminished power.

This production came about, it seems, when the sompany agreed to let the Italian director and designer Filippo Sanjust fulfill a long-held desire to mount the work in an authentic manner. San-just enlisted Gustav Leonhardt, a performing specialist in 17th-century music. Leonhardt, in turn, called in Alan Curtis, a 36-year-old professor of music at the University of California, who had prepared an edition, soon to be published, and per-formed it at Berkeley with a company he hod prepared himself.

A Blend

Curtis has gone about restoring Monteverdi and Busenello with what eeems to be a judicious blend of erudition and intuition, resolving the many problems posed by the Venice and Naples scores in part with the aid of a recently discovered early libretto. The essential and boldest element of this edition is the use of the 17th-century Venetian orchestra of two harpsichords, two large lutes, a recorder and a shawn (an early oboe), and a small all. The whole orchestra played on nellos, the singers being accompanic continuo instruments, thus throwing overwhelmingly on the singers.

Plastic Surgery-No Longer Just for the Vain and R

By Lynn Haney

NEW YORK (NYT).-"When I first began my practice, cosmetic surgery was almost oo the same level as performing abortions in a garage on Sunday." said Dr. Dorothea Weybright, a West Palm Beach plastic surgeon who opened her office 11 years

In the last decade, cosmetic plastic surgery-that is, surgery performed for aesthetic rather than medical reasons—has gone from being regarded as a surgical frill reserved for vain, rich but-terflies and aging movie stars to an accepted medical procedure for growing numbers of Americans of all ecocomic strata.

In 1949, 15,000 people a year underwent cosmetle surgical revamping in the United States. By 1969, the figure had swollen to nearly 500,000.

"Persons who seek plastic surgery come from all walks of life," said Dr. Burtoo H. Neft, a Pittsburgh plastic surgeon. "There are teen-agers, housewives, laborers, and steelworkers. A lot of weekingmen have feelings about their looks. I've done quite a few nasal plastic surgery steelworkers."

While the traditional face lift and nose operation form the bulk of a cosmetic surgeon's work load. an increasing number of people are having other parts of their bodies altered as well.

Sculpture

These procedures-sometimes called "body sculpture"-includa thigh trimming, brest augmentation and reduction, stomach tightening and recontouring of the buttocks.
Who chooses to have these unusual operations?

A 15-year-old boy with gynecomastia—the breast swelling that makes a male's chest look embarrrassingly feminine-who, before the operation, refused to participate in gym; a young mother with "riding breeches"—the excessive accumulation of fat at the top of the thighs which looks especially unattractive in a bath-ing suit; a middle-aged executive with a flaccid stomach who is about to marry a young girl.

Many surgeons and loymen frown on the idea of healthy people submitting themselves to the dangers of an operation for reasons of vanity.

Also, with the shortage of doctors in other specialities, they say plastic surgery chould be limited to patients ravaged by car accidents or deformed at birth by such abnormalities as cleft palates and extra limbs. And others see the desire to improve on nature as an indication of a "sick" society in which the Playboy image of nubile youth has triumphed, a society in which few people can be ac-cepted as they are.

Argument

Cosmetic plastic surgeons (all of the nation's 1,300 board-certified plastic surgeons do some cosmetic work, but 200 do little else) counter these arguments by saying that theirs is "the kindest cut of au."

Rather than being an index of dapravity, they say cosmetic operations amount to "sophis-ticated civilization surgery" that, as one doctor put it. "goes bethe normal. It's improvement of the normal. It's making normal better than normal."

Actually their attitude isn't new. An ancient art, estbetic

The Instant Face Lift

An old movie studio make-up trick, which instantly lifts under-eye saggy skin, is finding its way into beanty salons. The hairdresser applies two patches of adhesive tape above the customer's temples. The adhesives are attached to a rubber band that fits tightly around the head and pulls the skin up taut. Evelyn and Alan Marshall, a mother-son hairdressing team with salons in Los Angeles and New York have been using the techniques in their West Coast branch and starting this fall, they will be giving quick lifts to New Yorkers.

"We tape the face up gently, hide the tape under the coiffure, and, with a deceptive make-up, we shave as much as 20 years off a woman's face," Mr. Marshall said.

Customers usually save the instant lift for a big evening. One Los Angeles musical comedy star said: "I wear lifts for all singing engagements and any big party out here. If people know I wear them, what's the point in wearing them." The lifts, which take three hours, cost $25. Some women wear their lift and their corrective make up for two days. sleeping with the patches on. Others learn to do the instant surgery goes back to primitive tribal customs of distorting the lips, earlobes, neck and feet in an effort to "beantify" the human form. The operations used by surgeons today, however, were given impetus by the two World Wars that established a need for reconstructive surgery and from which evolved radical new techniques. The new emphasis on youth and nudity and the growing number of people who are having cosmetic operations and falking about them (Amy Vanderbilt recently gave the readers of Ladies Home Journal a cut-by-cut description of her face lift ore

Revolutionary new techniques in breast surgery have taken This factor, combined with the trend toward tha "no-bra look," has sent many women-the majority aged 15 to 30-scurrying to plastic surgeons. Others come not for vanity but because they have masculine-looking chests. Prior to 1950, if a woman wanted to increase her bosom. she had to relinquish a part of her buttocks.

Now all that has changed with the introduction of breast protheses, which are translucent silicone envelopes shaped like "falsies" and approximate the softness of real bosom.

a pile of world reserves. Who needed SDRs, he SDRs arrived on the sceue in mid-1969. Often called "paper gold," they are a man-created reserve asset, backed by the wealth and good faith of the major nations. At present, one SDR is the equivalent of one dollar's worth of gold priced at $35 an ounce. Essentially it is a bookteeping item—a credit on the IMF ledgers.

A year ago in Copenhagen, moreover, finance minister after finance minister rose to warm that the United States was living beyond its means; that it must "put its house in order"; that it must eradicate its excessive balance of payments deficit which was exporting inflation to the rest of the world.

A New Attitude

This week there is a new attitude about the real U.S. economic picture.

"The United States may well have over-reacted (on Aug. 15)." a distinguished Swiss banker seid privately. "There certainly is a short-run problem that is difficult. But the picture is not so bad as it has been painted. After all, the United States has enormous investments all over the world that in future years will be contributing (income) to the U.S. balance of payments. If we go as far as your Mr. (John B.) Connally is pushing us to correct the deficit, we may wind up with a dollar that is under-valued instead

An under-valued dollar could remake the United States in the image of Japan, building up surpluses, stimulating an export boom, shntling off European exports—all at the expense of the rest of the world. Little wonder that Mr. Giscard d'Estaing conjured up the spectre of a worldwide depression as a reason for "restoring order to the international monetary system."

So there it is: After long years of complaining about the U.S. payments deficit, some Europeans exhibit evidence of withdrawal pains—even in advance-at the prospect of a balance. Italian minister Mario Ferrari-Aggradi plainly suggested that it would be a mistake-even if it could be done to try to wipe out the U.S. deficit com-

The new role shaping up for the SDR is not userprising. If the big U.S. deficit is cut back sharply or eliminated, something will have to replace dollars as the main source of gold. It cannot be gold (there isn't enough of lti, but it can be paper gold.

Poor Still Frezen Out

One thing, in any event, has not changed in a year's time: The world's poor nations are still being frozen out of a greater share of SDRs. Having created this set of poker chips, tha blg nations are dealing most to themselves.

At Copenhagen last year, both World Bank president Robert S. McNamara and IMF managing director Pierre-Paul Schweitzer promised that there would be further "study" of creating g "link" between SDRs and aid to developing countries. However, hy last December, on orders from the Group of Ten, both the bank and the TAFF buried the idea. This was never announced. and neither Mr. McNamara nor Mr. Schweitzer mentioned the delicate question in speeches at the present meeting.

Now that SDRs are headed for a central role in the system, in which they may turn out to be the yardstick of currency value, as well as the fastest-growing reserve, the outlook is even dimmer for poorer nations to share in this par-

OECD to Challenge New U.S. Trade Goal

Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) has prepared a report suggesting in diplomatic lanaggerated the U.S. problem.
The OECD estimate, which will not be published until the formal International Monetar, Fund meeting adjourns here Friday-if it is published at all-places the U.S. need in about an $8 to $10

Coincidentally, it was learned, Japan's representatives at the IMF meeting have told their U.S. opposite numbers that the $13 billion estimate is too high, and while they are willing to par-ticipate "in an exercise" to adjust currency exchange rates changes in these relationships alone will not solve the U.S. problem.

Unofficial but authoritative U.S. sources have indicated that to achieve a $13 billion swing in the trade accounts, there would have to be a depreciation of the dollar against other currencies in the range of 15 percent.

An OECD committee, charged in mid-September with trying to add up the pluses and minuses of tha U.S. payments accounts, is ready to challenge the U.S. estimate. The $13 billion swing, as the Americans presented it, would represent a change from a $5 billion trade deficit at full employment to an $8 billion sur-

Metal Workers Seek 11% Raise At Volkswagen

WOLFSBURG, West Germany, Sept. 29 (AP-DJ).—The local metal workers trade union announced today that it is demanding an 11 percent pay increase for the 135,000 workers and employees of. Volkswagenwerk.

Current wage contracts, directly negotiated between Volkswagen and the union, expire Oct. 31 and will not be renewed by the union. Wage talks with management are to begin soon, union officials said, but an exact date has not been set. The company declined com-ment, recalling that VW has never stated its position prior to entering wage talks. They recalled that last year VW raised wages an average of 12 percent after the union had demanded a 16 percent increase.

Meanwhile, the government reported that cars made by Adam Opel, a General Motors subsidiary, led the Angust list of new car registrations in Germany, ahead of cars made by VW.

Soviet Government Goes Deeper $Into \, a \, New \, Jungle - Used \, Car \, Sales$

By Theodore Shabad MOSCOW, Sept. 29 (NYT).—Embroiled in the complexities of the new automobile age, the Soviet government has now established itself firmly in the used-car business. A new set of regulations published in Saturday's editions of the government newspaper, Izvestia, is designed to curb a growing black market in used cars as more and more new automobiles are being sold to private citizens. Under the new rules private owners may now sell cars legally to other individuals, provided that the deal is consummated through a commission store, one of a nationwide network of government-run second-hand shops. In theory, these commission stores, which carry anything from antiques to transistor radios, were also supposed to function as used-car dealers in the past. But it was common practice for sellers of a used automobile to bypass these stores by simply giving the new "owner" power of attorney to drive the car without transfer of title. Previous commission-store rules required that car owners used vehicles to the store without being able to assign titia to a relative, friend or other prospective buyer. Now the seller can pick the buyer if he wishes, with the store

Automakers

Sales of Imports Continue to Soar

DETROIT, Sept. 29 (AP-DJ).-A primary aim of President Nixon's economic directives announced Aug. 15 was to sharply stimulate domestic auto sales partly at the expense of imported autos. But the industry remains sluggish, caught in an acute earnings squeeze, while sales of imported cars continue

One consequence has been a slower recovery in the steel in-dustry, though both auto and executives hope they will henefit eventually from the Nixon program.

The White House had believed U.S.-make auto sales would rise sharply because price increases would be banned and a proposed elimination of a 7 percent excise tax would lower prices about $200 a car. In addition, imported antos would carry an additional duty (10 percent, up from 3.5 percent).

With domestic production booming, laid-off workers would return to the assembly lines while auto makers would sharply raise orders for machinery, equipment, even plants, with the encouragement of a 10 percent investment tax credit. This would create more jobs and make more money available to consumers. Auto makers immediately endorsed the Tidal Marine International Corporation is a U.S. public company which owns and operates tankers and dry cargo vessels mainly under Greek and Liberian flags. Major international oil companies provide the majority of Tidal's revenues and income. The policy of Tidal is to charter its ships for periods of several years.

At present the average period of time charter for the entire fleet is 29 months.

GROWTH RECORD Mr. Harry Amanatides, President of Tidal, states in a letter to Stockholders that the purchase of 28 ships this year completes the 1971 acquisition program. "Tidal took delivery of its first ship in July, 1969. In the past two years the fleet has grown to 41 yessels with more than 700,000 dwr.

A substantial part of this expansion is the result of Tidal's policy of offering independent shipowners the unique opportunity of becoming equity partners in Tidal by exchanging their ships for Tidal's common stock as well as cash. We are pleased to report that 10 independent owners have become our equity partners by adding their ships to Tidal's fleet in this way.

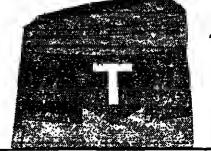

SECOND PHASE Now that we have a fleet of sufficient size to afford economies of scale, especially in the purchase of insurance and bunkers, we are entering the second phase of our long-term growth program. While we will continue to seek expansion of Tidal's fleet through the acquisition of groups of vessels belonging to independent owners, in this phase we will emphasize the rationalisation of Tidal's fleet, particularly through the selective purchase of romage which will improve our asset mix.

In addition we are studying with our financial advisors, Shearson, Hammill and Co. Inc., one of America's largest investment banking and brokerage firms, plans to increase substantially our long-term capital, thereby further strengthening our financial position,"

FUTURE PROFITS "It is not the policy of Tidal to estimate future earnings but we are confident that revenues provided by existing charters for the second half of 1971 will result in substantially higher profits."

Copies of the hulf-year financial results and the President's letter to Stockholders are available from: Shearson, Hammill & Co. Inc., 77 London Wall, London EC2.

BRIDGE

By Alan Truscott

Most tournament-level players would find the winning play on the diagramed deal reported in Popular Bridge by Alfred Sheinwold, who has long been one of the world's greatest bridge writers. But even the experts would be put to the test if West experimented a little with his opening lead. South overcalled East's one diamond with one no-trump and was raised to game. The lead was the spade five, which would be likely to defeat the contract if South had no clues to the distribution. His best chance would be to capture the spade king with the ace, insuring two spade tricks, in the hope that the spades would be divided 4-4.

But in this case, West had refused to lead his partner's dismood suit. He must have real prospects of doing something with his spade suit, so a five-card suit was much more likely than four, In addition, East's opening bid marked him with the missing aces. South therefore permitted the spade king to win the first trick, sacrificing a spade trick but making the contract. He played low on the next spade lead, and West's spades became useless. South could drive out East's aces at leisure, making nine tricks.

South would probably have gone astray if the opening lead had been the spade three, a deceptive fifth-best. With the spade two in dummy, he would have placed West with exactly four spades and captured the first trick with the ace.

This immediate capture would be necessary if the spades were four-four, but it is fatal when opportunity, East continues spades and West ducks. In this way, the defenders eventually get five tricks, three for West to spades together with East's two

All in all this was a hand for falsecarding on the opening lead. If West had held four spades, the lead of the third spade, concealing one small spot card, would probably induce South to hold up his spade ace with fatal

In 1954, a large-scale military defeat at Dien Bien Phu solidi-fled the belief of the French public that France could not win the first Indochina War. In 1968, the "piddling" action and other battlefied victories by U.S. and Saigon government forces—the defeat of the enemy offensive in strictly military terms—turned growing American doubts into a near consensus: The stalemated second Indochina War was not worth its terrible price.

Don Oberdorfer explains in "Tet!" how this happened. It is essential reading for everyone. concerned about the Vietnam war-and the making of American foreign policy.

Oberdorfer does full justice to what he saw as "a classic case study in the interaction of war. politics, the press and public opinion." Writing in a clear and vivid style, he reviews the history of the months prior to and after the attacks, and adds many new, often startling details and anecdotes. They enliven the book and make it as enjoyable as its unhappy subject will allow.

"Tet!" covers events in Vietnam on both sides of the fight The descriptions of battle are strong and terse. And Oberdorfer. does an excellent job of piecing together Hanoi's decisions. (It. would have been useful, however, if he had stated more clearly what is reasonable conjecture and what is more certainly factual.)

The objectivity is notable, No one is spared in his stories of wasted bravery: the cynicism of Communist commanders who committed troops to battle with promises of nonexistent reinforcements; the incompetence and cowardice of certain South Vietnamese officers; the failures in United States officials understanding of the war and of Vietnam itself, and their public lies, conscious or otherwise.

In a powerful chapter on the battle and massacre at Hué, Oberdorfer shows that the Viet Cong's cold-blooded slaughter of anti-Communist civilians was a calculated campaign. But he also. presents some conflicting evidence about whether in President' Nixon's words, "with the sudden collapse of our support, these atrocities of Hué would become the nightmare of an entire

The real trouble started when the Padres decided to walk Dick Dietz intentionally after Acosta had thrown two unintentional balls to him. The tactic boomeranged when Alan Gallagher, the No. 7 man in the line-up, bounced a single to right for one run.

Then Speier unloaded the 1and-1 pitch into the seats in leftcenter for the eighth home run of his freshman season.

Caddies' Rake Won't Hurt

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (NYT) -The rule of golf that annoys many touring professionals the most is headed for oblivion. Effective Jan. 1, 1972, a player no longer will be penalized if his caddie rakes a bunker before he plays a shot from the hazard and such action does not assist him.

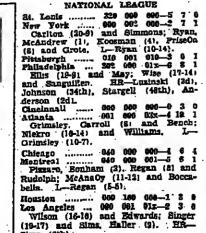

Along the circuit and in some championships, inexperienced bagtoters have on occasion raked the sand before a player arrived at the bunker. A two-stroke penalty ensued when the player realized what had happened by his well-meaning caddle. The player's demeanor was upset because the raking often was done in a section of the bunker some distance from his ball.

The caddie's overzealousness hereafter will not penalize the golfer, who always instructs his caddie to rake and smooth the sand after he hits from the bunker.

This rule change and others, together with clarifications, resulted from last May's meeting at St. Andrews of the negotiating committees of the United States Golf Association and the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland.

only way to defeat Thieu is by tearing the ballot. He feels the people who want to step on their ballots are unrealistic. Thieu can easily have stomped ballots cleaned and pressed and then count them for himself. Hok told me at bis headquarters, where they were holding a Tear Your Ballot for Peace' rally:

"The ballot tearers are the only ones who can beat Thieu, but we'll never do it unless the foot stompers and burners join

"Over at the foot stompers' headquarters Suk Ran Duk said, The ballot tearers are more interested in their own methods of mutilating a ballot than they are in the election. When you stamp on one with your foot, you crush it. It's sible to rensir and we're telling our people to stick with their heels."

"The ballot burners, the most militant of the anti-Thieu forces, say that the ballot tearers and the ballot stompers are playing

An American Super-Historian Looks Back

By Israel Shenker

NEW YORK (NYT).—Prof. Henry Steele Commager, who has spent 45 years teaching history to college students, writing, and occasionaly lecturing congressional committees, is calling a halt of Theoretically retiring," was the way he put it. Having taught his last class at Amherst College last June as Smith Professor of History, he nonetheless has picked up at the old lectern, newly resplendent as the Simpson Lecturer.

This is a professorial chair the college in Massachusetts uses to honor someone past retirement age or simply not a member of the regular faculty.

As Simpson Lecturer, Prof. Commager, who is 68, will give a weekly seminar in American iniellectual history, "I may do it in poetry," he said, "because my predecessors were Robert Frost and Archie "Can't imagine not teaching the young,"

Prof. Commager mused. "If I hadn't stayed on at Amherst, I'd have gone somewhere else and taught.

"As I look back many, many years to my own days as a student in college, I don't think I learned anything there, but I got the notion that it was terribly exciting to study certain things.

Search for Identity

"What every college must do is hold up before the young the spectacle of great-ness, not necessarily in the teachers but in history or in life or in literature. You become a historian for example, not so much because you're interested in history. but because you admire people who are interested in history."

At the first seminar last week, Prof. Commager stuck with prose, and suggested to his students that the American search for identity was a problem until World

"The young are so certain now of the primary interest and importance of America that ther're no longer interested in problems of identity," he explained, and so the search was simply dropped. recalled Santayana's observation that merica never solves any of its problems it simply bids them amiably goodbye.

Prof. Commager was interviewed at his New York club, where he was attending a board meeting of the Friends of Cambridge University. He has a house at Cambridge, and spends most summers there.

Many a semester has gone to serving as visiting professor in a foreign university— in Europe, in Israel, in Latin America. To ommodate scholarly excursions be even belongs to clubs in three great university centers: the Century in New York, St. Botolph's in Boston, the Athenaeum in dren's books, reviews, and no end of special pleading in articles and testimony.

To his delight he has found all of man's art and artifice relevant to the writing and teaching of intellectual history. He replied briskly to questions about the contem-porary intellectual scene, like a lineman who can read the play by peering into the eyes of the opposing team's quarter-

"The new generation is an anti-liero generation-Samuel Beckett is more the model than Macaulay," he said.

"There's a tendency to avoid specific moral questions, and to fall back on general declarations of immorality and guilt, as we find today with reference to the war, to the atrocities, to the race issues. Not to blame particular people because they are bad, but to find the American people as a whole remiss in their vanities or their ambittons."

The young do not barken back to George Washington, Abraham Lincoln or Thomas Jefferson, he noted; Jefferson, for example, is condemned as a necessarily bad man because he was a slaveholder.

"This procedure," said Prof. Commager, eliminates most of the heroes of the past, because they were connected with something tainted-like slavery or capitalism. Prof. Commager likes to draw a distinction between political judgments. "I don't think the historian should be a judge in a formal sense, saying, 'He was good,' 'He should have been sentenced. He should have been regrieved.' The historian is not God, but I think it's inevitable that historians use judgment. I don't think this is a definable distinction, but it is a dis-"We use our judgment about whether our Vietnamese venture is wise, and a historian says to himself, If only Nixon and everyone else had read Thucydides's account of the Syracuse expedition maybe this wouldn't have happened.' Or he remembers three hundred years of misery between the Irish and the English, he remembers that victors can forgive but the injured won't, and he realizes that the Chinese and Vietnamese are not going to forgive us as quickly as we'll forgive them.

In the years Prof. Commager has been teaching, historical judgments and tech-niques have evolved. Today historians emphasize quantitative history and a more sophisticated use of statistics. There has been a shift into technical and cultural history, into psychology, into complex efforts to merge the wisdom of psychologist, economist, philosopher and historian.

"This is the age of technicians in his-tory." he said. "The last great narrative historian was Churchill. You can get excited about reading his Mariborough, but you can't really get excited about even the most admirable analysis of demographic change in France in the 18th century. It may be an elegant piece of work, but the young will not wave banners about technical competence in a time of disillusion with technology."

Finishing New Book

Prof. Commager is finishing a nondemographic study on America and the European Enlightenment, and another work on the American character—companion to his 1951 book "The American Mind."

He has just finished "Britain Through American Eyes"—a parallel to the late Allan Nevins's "America Through British Eyes." (Prof. Nevins was the Stakhanovite paragon for Prof. Commager, and Samuel Eliot Morison is the second important model; each co-authored work with Prof. Commager.)

"Everything I do is relaxing, because I enjoy what I'm doing," said the Simpson Lecturer, "What a musician wants to do with his life is play music, a painter wants paint, a teacher wants to teach. 'It's absurd to be consumed with regrets to pressmen. Kyoko was also present, and Cox said this represented exploitation of the child. Answering questions from Mrs. Lennon's attorney, Cox agreed that he had on occasion over your failure to conquer the world, or to conquer the world of knowledge, which is shared a bath with his daughter when she was much younger, and that communal family bathso vast, and sensible men adjust to that."
